

instinct

...follow yours

Our Annual Swimsuit Issue

BET YOUR SWIM TEAM DIDN'T LOOK LIKE THIS!

Is V-Day Really
D-Day?

Different Ways to Love or Hate
the Holiday

+ Joel McHale takes it off for our Soapbox!

Red Hot!

COVER GUY

Chris Nogiec

He's Got A
Brain To Go
With That Body

instinctmagazine.com

FEBRUARY 2011 $4.95 USA/CANADA

PAMPERED PUPS RELAX
The enviable
Uber Double Suite

Woof Wonderful!

A Unique, Luxury Play & Lay for Pups

If you and your man are getting out of Dodge for Valentine's Day (and you live in L.A., or are popping into La La Land to see some friends) D Pet Hotels is the perfect place to drop off your dog for a day or lodge him longer since you won't have to worry—he'll be pampered all the while you're gone. You're in for a guilt-free weekend while your darling dog is given the five-star treatment. Whether its daycare or a doggie weekend, D Pet Hotels is really something of a pup's paradise.

The first thing to note about this 13,500-square-foot luxury pet resort and spa at Santa Monica Boulevard and Highland in Hollywood is that the place is so clean and well-maintained you'd want to sleep there yourself—and we're talking even the pickiest of queens who won't live without modern amenities. We're told the premises are cleaned and sanitized daily, and they assure the daddies dropping off their pups that the dry steam vapor they use is hypoallergenic, chemical-free, environmentally safe and the most-effective means on the market.

Next, you'll have to see where your little one (or big guy) will slumber. Even the so-called "standard suites" at D Pet Hotels are above and beyond what you'd get at any other typical boarding facilities because D Pet Hotels is anything but typical. All suites include doggie beds and flat-screen TVs, and you can really pamper that pooch of yours with one of the facility's "Uber Double Suites," which are 22-foot by 17-foot playgrounds of pure puppy heaven including queen size beds and 42" flat-screen TVs tuned to whatever floats his fancy (his favorite DVD or Animal Planet, perhaps? Heck, if he's got a thing for the Coop like you, they'll leave it on CNN all weekend while you're away!).

Your pooch won't be bored either. D Pet Hotels offers the very best in doggie daycare consisting of three great indoor play areas that span 6,000 square feet of the hotel's grounds. And if you board your dog, he gets a full day of run-around-and-play recess with all the other pups in one of the three play areas (one for every sized pooch). You can even enroll him in an exercise class if he put on a few pounds over the holidays since there are custom-sized doggie treadmills and, yes gays, personal training for dogs who need some extra exercise.

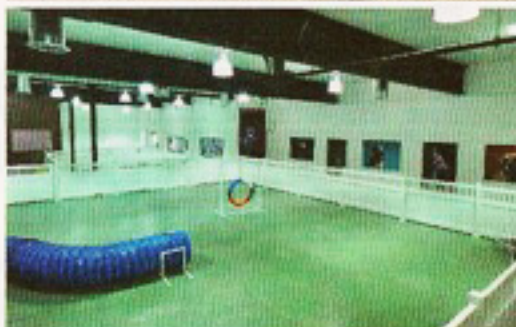

There's a simple and straightforward admission process to make sure your loved one has all his shots and isn't aggressive toward other dogs, but it's a breeze. One call to your vet and a quick meet-and-greet with your dog and a D Pet Hotels staff member, and you'll be good to go. We recommend having your doggie bathed before you pick him up since he'll have slobbered on and been slobbered by all the other pups during playtime. The onsite spa can give him a simple wash and fluff in the tub or provide more upscale spa and grooming services like massages, body wraps, hair coloring and nail painting.

D Pet Hotels takes boarding luxury for pups to a new level, and these are your kids, right? So, of course, you want to spoil them rotten! Get 'em a doggie massage or put 'em up in a suite with a bed big enough for you (and your three ex-boyfriends). You'll be pleasantly surprised that the prices aren't so far gone either.

To learn more about pampering your pup, visit dpethotels.com

CARDIO POOCH
Fitness
for Fido

SLUMBER TIME
A row of Standard Suites.